Illinois Institute of Technology

University Scholarships for Undergraduate Students

Scholarship eligibility is highly competitive and is determined by evaluating the academic data provided by the Undergraduate Admissions Office and financial data obtained from the FAFSA. The Office of Financial Aid administers renewals of the awards. Unless otherwise noted, these scholarships are renewable for four years and apply only to undergraduate students who maintain full-time status. Students are not eligible for renewal of their IIT scholarships while participating in a co-op program. All IIT scholarships require satisfactory academic progress and most have additional academic requirements. Students may check their award letter for more specific details regarding scholarships awarded.

Fellowships, Scholarships, and Assistantships for Graduate Students

Fulltime students applying to Professional Master's Programs who have exceptionally strong academic records may be eligible for one of a limited number of one-year, half-tuition academic scholarships. Fulltime students applying to M.S. and Ph.D. programs may qualify for fellowships, scholarships, and assistantships. You will be considered automatically for scholarships, fellowships, and assistantships at the time the admission decision is made—as long as you apply by the funding deadline listed on the admission application.

A fellowship provides financial support to defray the cost of tuition and a stipend for living expenses. A tuition scholarship provides all or part of the tuition only. Both are exempt from federal income taxes. Most degree programs provide financial support for teaching assistants who help with instruction and research assistants who work on funded research projects. Graduate assistants may receive support in the form of a stipend and/or tuition support.

Continuing students should apply to their major academic unit. Acceptance of an award or appointment for the fall semester is considered binding on the student after April 15. If a student's academic work is judged to be unsatisfactory, the award may be canceled at the discretion of the university at any time during the period covered

Northwestern University

Northwestern University does not offer merit based scholarships (based on academics) to any of its students, domestic or international. However, Northwestern does award financial aid to U.S. citizens and permanent residents on the basis of financial need. In addition, Northwestern will offer need-based financial awards to a small group of international students entering in Fall 2006. Please see the information under Financial Aid for International Students for details on this new policy.

Students in the process of obtaining permanent residency should be aware that they cannot be considered for financial aid until they receive actual documentation of their immigration status in the country. The following is a list of acceptable documentation that establishes aid eligibility:

For Permanent Residents:

1. Permanent Resident Card (formerly Resident Alien Card): Form I-551 (also acceptable is the no longer used Alien Registration Receipt Card: Form I-151)
2. Arrival/Departure Record: Form I-94 (current) with an A-Number annotated on it with one of the following endorsements:
  - (a) "Processed for I-551..." with valid expiration date
  - (b) "Temporary Form I-551..." with appropriate entry information, date, and signatures
3. Home country passport endorsed "Processed for I-551" with valid expiration date

For Other Eligible Non-Citizens:

Other non-citizens may be eligible for federal financial aid. The most commonly presented evidence is a current I-94 with a stamp indicating specific status such as refugees or asylees. If you have specific questions about your status, please contact us.

Financial Aid for International Students

Northwestern University will offer need-based financial aid awards to a small group of international students entering in Fall 2006. Citizens of countries outside the United States who apply under Regular Decision for financial aid will be reviewed as a separate group. The usual selective admission criteria, as well as the amount of financial aid needed by an applicant, will be factors in the admission committee's decision. As a result, Northwestern will not offer admission to some candidates who are otherwise well-qualified. For these reasons, the admission rate for international applicants requesting aid is substantially lower than for those not requesting aid. Only those students who apply for and receive financial aid for their freshman year will be eligible to receive financial assistance in subsequent years. There is no financial aid available for international transfer applicants or international students applying under Early Decision.

U.S. citizens living abroad, permanent residents of the U.S., and other eligible non-U.S. citizens may receive financial aid from Northwestern and should follow the same application process as U.S.

citizens for financial aid. Enrolling permanent residents will be asked to submit the proper documents showing their immigration status to finalize the award.

International students receiving financial aid from Northwestern must still plan to contribute to funding their educational expenses. For example, students will be responsible for travel expenses to the U.S. from their home country. Northwestern University cannot assume responsibility for economic changes such as currency fluctuation, nor can it replace lost support that a student may have expected to receive from relatives, sponsors, or government and corporate grants.

The Office of Undergraduate Financial Aid has the most detailed and current information about financial aid policy and further instructions on how to correctly complete financial aid forms.

International Students Planning To Pursue Advanced Degrees

International students receiving need-based financial aid from Northwestern for their undergraduate degree should be aware that this funding will not continue if they choose to pursue medical school, law school, graduate school, or any other professional studies at Northwestern University.

Northwestern Scholarship assistance

Any undergraduate student enrolled in a degree-seeking program may apply for consideration for Northwestern Scholarship assistance. All NU Scholarships are awarded on the basis of demonstrated financial need and availability of funding at the time the student applies for aid. Approximately one-half of all Northwestern undergraduate students receive NU Scholarship assistance, and recipients come from families with a wide range of income backgrounds. The chart below illustrates the average NU Scholarship amounts based on income level for the 2005-06 entering freshman class. Please note that many, if not most, of the families with higher income levels who receive NU Scholarships have more than one child attending college.

Average NU Scholarship Awarded to Incoming Freshman Aid Recipients 2005-06
Parent Income (AGI)	Percent of Students	Average NU Scholarship

The United

Agribusiness League & United Agricultural Benefit Trust Scholarship Program

Since its inception in 1989, United Agribusiness League and United Agricultural Benefit Trust have combined to award more than $500,000 in scholarship monies to students studying agriculture and related fields of study. The money we've invested in the ag leaders of tomorrow has already paid dividends. Upon graduation, UAL scholarship winners have taken their place in management, government, market development, international sales and field supervisory capacities with agribusiness firms and in their own family businesses. Along with UAL's assistance, some have gone on to advanced graduate studies in agriculture.

In 2006 UAL has available through the League and its sponsored health care benefit trust, United Agricultural Benefit Trust (UABT), over $50,000 in scholarship grants to help fund the education of students who will pursue careers in agriculture. Any ag student presently enrolled, or who will be enrolled anytime during the 2006/7 scholastic year in studies related to the agricultural industry should consider applying for a UAL/UABT scholarship. Only students presently residing in the United States, Canada and Mexico are eligible for the UAL/UABT scholarship program.

The Requirements for applying for a UAL or UABT Scholarship:

The rules for both programs are the same, with one key eligibility difference. Only an employee, spouse or child participating in the UABT health care plan is eligible to receive a scholarship from the League's Benefit Trust. No affiliation with UAL is required to win a League scholarship. Here are the requisite elements that must all be met in order to have a scholarship application considered.

- Be sure all items specified in the application checklist are included in your submission. Incomplete or incorrectly completed applications will not be considered.
- An essay is required. It must be only two pages in length, typewritten and double-spaced. A one page bibliography must accompany your essay. THE TOPIC FOR THE 2006 ESSAY CAN BE FOUND IN THE SCHOLARSHIP SUBMISSION SECTION.
- A minimum 2.5 GPA is required to be eligible for a scholarship.
- Three letters of recommendation are required - one from a teacher, one from an employer and one from a volunteer organization with which you have been associated.
- A one-page typed resume of any educational, work, community or extra curricular activities that you feel you would like the scholarship committee to know about.
- Completed applications must be postmarked to United Agribusiness League offices no later than March 31, 2006.

UAL's Scholarship Search Service

In addition to our own educational grants for agricultural students, UAL provides a valuable scholarship search program for anyone seeking funds for college, regardless of their course major.

The UAL Scholarship Search Program utilizes a database of over 9,000 sources, having a cumulative total of more than $2.8 billion in educational funds to qualified students. Through our Scholarship Search Program, UAL can provide members, their employees and families with a myriad of potential sources for financial aid.

Each student using the search service has their qualifications and educational criteria matched with the potential sources of scholarships and other financial assistance available from the organizations, institutions and agencies listed in the database. To take advantage of this special service, students simply fill out a UAL information form designed to help them find the maximum number of suitable matches in the scholarship search engine. Generally, the search results in the student receiving a comprehensive list of potential funding sources.

There is no charge for this service to all 2006 scholarship applicants, as well as to all employees of UAL member firms and their children. Contact UAL Member Services at (800) 223-4590 to obtain a Student Information Form, or fax your request to (949) 975-1573. You can also send us E-mail at: info@ual.org.

Please complete all information on the application form. All items on this checklist must be included with the scholarship application or it will be classified "ineligible". The deadline for applications to be postmarked is Friday, March 31, 2006. A 2.5 GPA or higher is required to be considered for a 2006 scholarship award. Please be sure to follow all instructions carefully and completely.

Be sure your UAL/UABT scholarship submission includes:

- A completed application form. All sections pertaining to UAL must be filled out
- A two-page, double-spaced, typed essay on the following topic: "American Agriculture relies on a viable basic workforce of field and processing laborers. There is currently a shortage of this labor force. How do you propose to solve this challenge?" with a one-page typed bibliography.
- A one-page typed resume of all educational, work, community and/or extra curricular activities that you feel you'd like the scholarship committee to know about
- Three (3) Letters of recommendation-one from a teacher, one from an employer and one from a volunteer organization. If you've never been employed or worked for a volunteer group, you may substitute additional letters from teachers.
- If you'd like your financial need to be considered, current financial statements (tax returns/bank statements/etc.) for you and your family should be submitted along with the application. Financial need will not be considered unless an applicant specifically requests it and furnishes all the supporting documentation to substantiate personal and family income, expenses, savings, etc.
- GPA transcripts (copies are acceptable) documenting cumulative averages from the school you are currently attending, including most recent academic period, (quarter or semester) and prior three years.
